Explore the Visual Arts Degrees at Nelson Mandela University

The Department of Visual Arts is part of the School of Visual and Performing Arts in the Faculty of Humanities at Nelson Mandela University. As the oldest art school in South Africa, established in 1882, we have a rich and proud history.

A comprehensive selection of degree programmes is offered, including a Bachelor of Visual Arts, Bachelor of Visual Arts Honours, a Master of Visual Arts, and a PhD in Visual Arts. In all our programs, students can use our specialised studio spaces. They receive teaching in both group and one-on-one settings from well-qualified staff who are professionals in their respective fields. All our courses offer a blend of theoretical studies, practical studio-based skills, and entrepreneurial practices.

The following Bachelor of Visual Arts degree majors are available:

Ceramics
Fashion and Textile Design
Graphic Design
Painting
Photography
Printmaking
Sculpture

Visual Arts Postgraduate Studies: Bachelor of Visual Arts Honours

Our Honours programme cultivates and promotes elevated creative and professional development levels within the visual arts. Over one year, students will embark on a self-directed project, which culminates in a group exhibition.

Master of Arts: Visual Arts

The master's degree program spans two years and involves conducting advanced research independently. This research culminates in a written dissertation for a theoretical or empirical study or a research report and a significant body of creative work for practice-based studies.

PhD in Visual Arts

A PhD in Visual Arts is a research-focused program that offers advanced training to students interested in pursuing a career in academia or the arts. Through rigorous coursework, critical analysis, and creative production, students develop their artistic practice while engaging in contemporary debates in the field.
